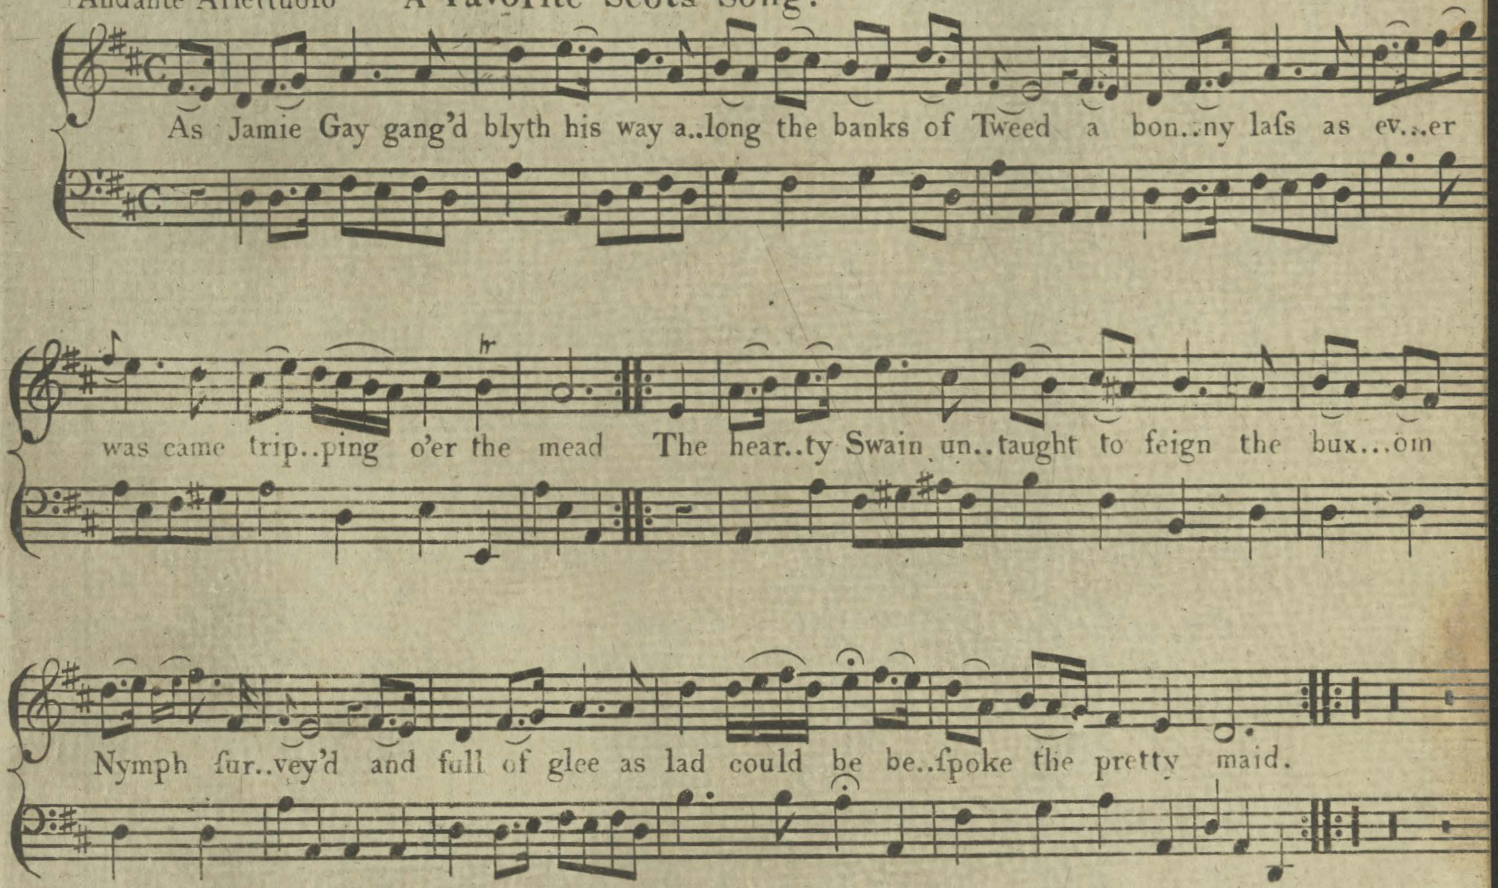
146847-100

Royal Academy of Music Library

JAMIE GAY.

Andante Affettuoſo A Favorite Scots Song.



As Jamie Gay gang'd blyth his way a..long the banks of Tweed a bon..ny laſs as ev..er was came trip..ping o'er the mead The hear..ty Swain un..taught to feign the bux...om
Nymph ſur..vey'd and full of glee as lad could be be..ſpoke the pretty maid.

(2)

Dear laſſy tell why by thine ſell,
Thou haſtly wand'reſt here,
My Ewes ſhe cry'd are ſtraying wide,
Canſt tell me laddie where,
To town I'll hie he made reply,
Some meikle ſport to ſee,
But thou'rt ſo ſweet ſo trim and neat,
I'll ſeek the Ewes with thee.

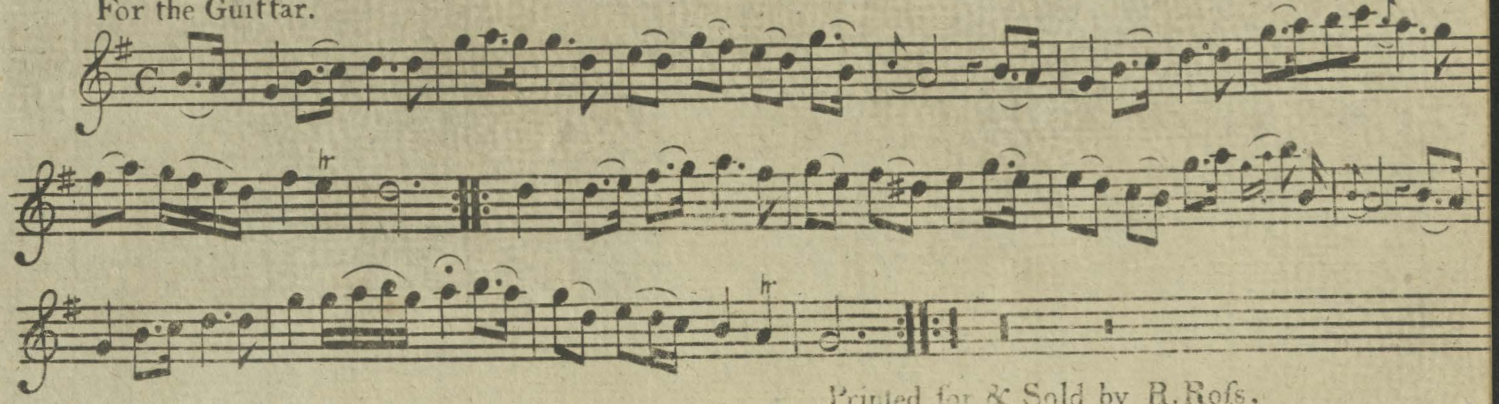
(3)

She gi'm her hand nor made a Stand,
But lik'd the youth's intent,
O'er hill and dale o'er plain and vale,
Right merrily they went,
The birds ſang ſweet, the pair to greet,
And flowers bloom'd around,
And as they walk'd of love they talk'd,
And Joys which lovers crown'd.

(4)

And now the ſun had roſe to noon,
The Zenith of his power,
When to a ſhade their ſteps they made,
To paſs the mid-day hour,
The bonny lad row'd in his plaid,
The laſs who ſcorn'd to frown,
She ſoon forgot the Ewes ſhe ſought,
And he to gang to town.

For the Guittar.



Printed for & Sold by R. Roſs.

Edinburgh

Royal Academy of Music Library